

Sara Day Thomson attended a Digital Conversations Event at the British Library on 10 September 2014 on the topic of 'Digital Data and Artistic Expression'. The evening event series showcases innovative and topical subjects within the overarching field of digital information. This event featured a panel of scholars, artists, and practitioners who presented and discussed the conjunction of digital data and artistic expression within a wide variety of contexts. The next Digital Conversations Event - 'GLAMs Playing Nicely with the Games Industry: Using Cultural Heritage Collections to Inspire Videogame Creation' - will be held on Monday 8 December 2014. Sara has provided informal notes from 'Digital Data and Artistic Expression' which are available to DPC members interested in the topic. To access her notes, and to see the full list of conference and workshop reports see the Conference Notes and Meeting Reports section of the Members' Area (login Required).

- Register for DPC website
- Login to website
- DPC Conference Notes and Meeting Reports
- More on the Digital Conversations event series can be found on the Digital Scholarship blog