

The Digital Preservation Coalition

January 31, 2012

Preserving Our Digital Scholarly Content: The CLOCKSS Archive

Randy S. Kiefer
Executive Director

www.clockss.org

The CLOCKSS Archive – Digital Preservation

CLOCKSS is a dark archive founded by the world's leading international libraries and publishers to keep digital preservation in the hands of the community.

1. Community-governed archive
 - The Board is 50% libraries and 50% publishers.
2. Globally distributed libraries preserving content.
 - Geographically, geologically, politically distributed.
3. Maintain modest costs & keep fees low.
 - Leverage library infrastructure.
 - Using open-source LOCKSS technology for preservation.
4. Triggered content is made available to the whole community to preserve continued access to abandoned/orphaned content.

Community Governed

2012 Board of Directors

Jun Adachi, NII)

Ian Bannerman, Taylor & Francis
Walker, IOP Publishing

Peter Burnhill, Univ. of Edinburgh

Allan Williams, Australian Nat'l Univ.

Mark Heaver, Oxford Univ. Press

Geneva Henry, Rice University

David Hoole, Nature Publishing Grp

Mary-Jo Romaniuk, Univ. of Alberta

Brenda Johnson, Indiana University

Michael Keller, Stanford University

Richard Newman, AMA

Chip Nilges, OCLC

Carol Richman, SAGE Publications

James Heather Ruland Staines, Springer

Ellis Sada, Univ. Cattolica del Sacro Cuore

Rita Scheman, American Physiological Soc.

Peter Schirmbacher, Humboldt University

Peter Sidorko, University of Hong Kong

Martha R. Sites, University of Virginia

Craig Van Dyck, Wiley-Blackwell

Alicia Wise, Elsevier

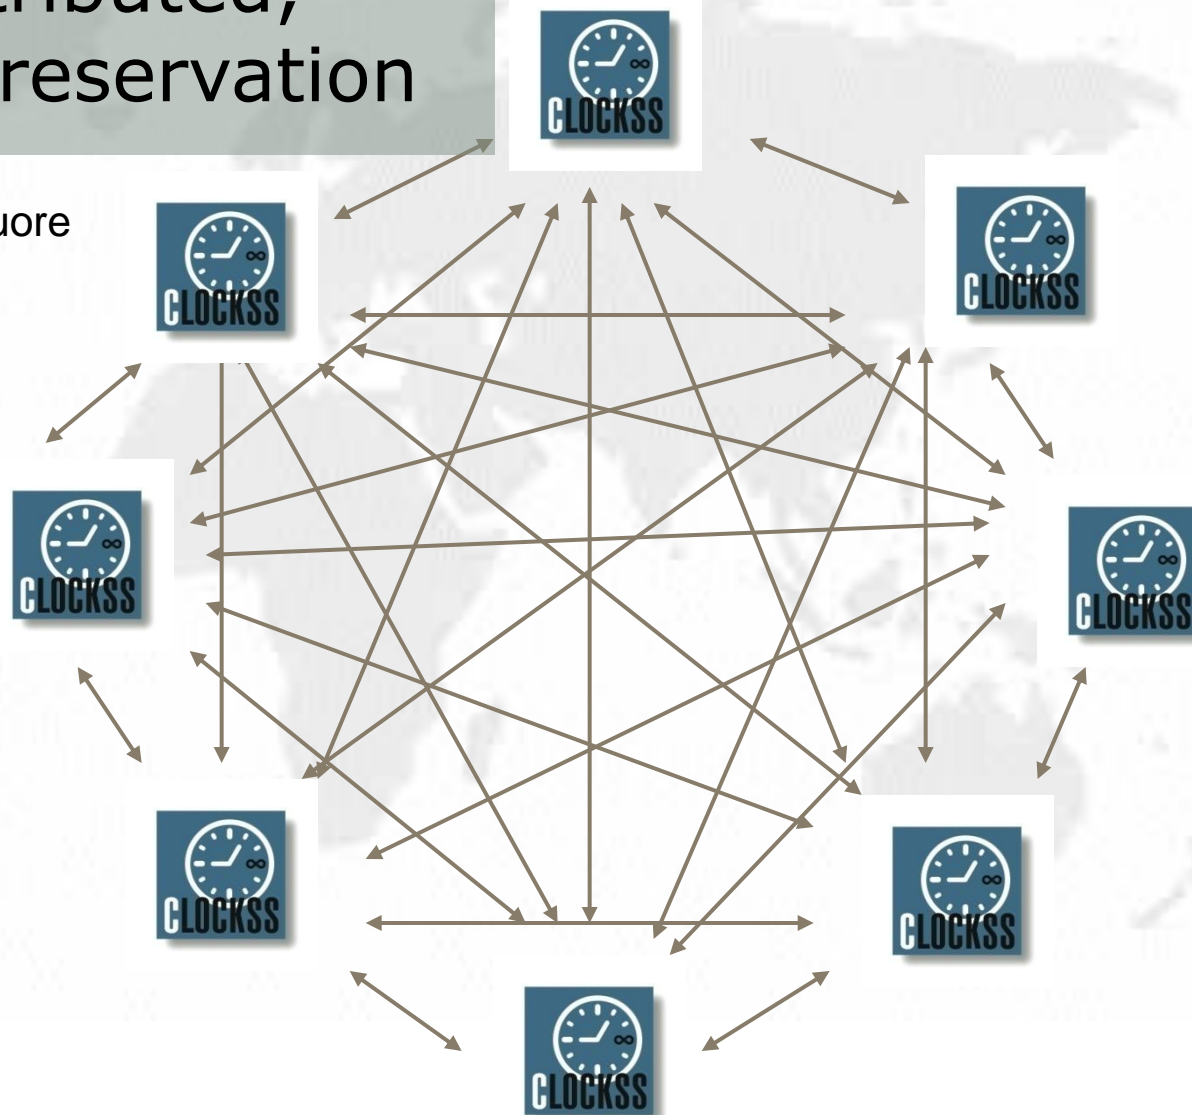

David K. Marshall, SIAM

www.clockss.org

Globally Distributed, Decentralized Preservation

Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore
Humboldt University - Berlin
Australian National University
OCLC
Edinburgh University
Indiana University
Japan NII
Rice University
Stanford University
University of Alberta
University of Hong Kong
University of Virginia

www.clockss.org

Publisher Comments

- ❖ Impressive capture of the full web-published content. Rich content maintaining the dynamic relationships of all elements.
- ❖ For OA publishers, the content will have an OA future. The commitment to accessibility.
- ❖ Competitive alternative in the business model and the technology.
- ❖ Solid founders and growing list of publishers.
- ❖ Interesting board structure.
- ❖ Commitment to due diligence on ownership/ access before triggering.

* Recent growth of the organization and staff.

Thank you to the DPC and all panel members!

Randy S. Kiefer
+1 410 227-3005
Randy.kiefer@clockss.org

www.clockss.org