

Date: 29th July 2008

Venue: Room 2, British Library Conference Centre

PLANETS and the Digital Preservation Coalition (DPC) will be holding a joint briefing day: Digital Preservation Planning: Principles, Examples and the Future with Planets, on the 29th of July 2008, at the British Library Conference Centre, St Pancras, London.

The event will be an informal and interactive workshop allowing attendees to share knowledge and experience in digital preservation planning, setting strategy and policy plus first-hand experience of Planets tools and technology.

Attendees will also hear from DPC members about the approaches they have used in their organisations and the outcomes. There will be plenty of opportunity to ask questions and for discussion.

Planning is crucial to the process of preserving digital information and data. Planets has taken preservation planning as its research focus. From mid 2010, Planets will deliver downloadable software to help organisations plan and execute preservation activities.

Benefits of attendance

- Understanding of aspects of preservation planning, policy and strategy setting
- Real-life insight into other organisations' approaches to preservation planning
- Awareness of the range of services and tools Planets will deliver
- Hands-on experience of Plato, Planets' preservation planning tool
- Insight into identifying the characteristics of digital objects
- Understanding of working in a testbed environment

- An opportunity to ask questions and for discussion

Who should attend?

The event will appeal to anyone involved at any stage in digital preservation policy, strategy and planning cycle. (e.g. librarians archivists, digital librarians and archivists, repository managers, software developers, vendors, policy managers etc and others working in a wide range of settings).
