

The Library at the London school of Economics (LSE) is seeking to recruit a project officer for the Digital Communications Enhancement Project on a 6-month fixed-term contract Salary : £31,998 to £38,737 p.a. inclusive

The Library is at the heart of LSE, one of the world's greatest social science universities, and serves a vibrant community of students and staff in the centre of London. An opportunity has arisen for a confident, self-motivated individual to join our busy and dynamic Library Services.

The post holder will be responsible for using their awareness of current and emerging digital preservation theory and practice to distil key messages for the target audiences of the project and, in collaboration with the in-house design unit, designing and producing training materials. The post holder will also participate in piloting the materials in information literacy training, provided in partnership with experienced Library trainers, and will contribute to documenting the outcomes of the project for the wider JISC and UK/HE community.
