The future access to information produced or held in digital formats is a step closer to being more fully understood.

Significant interest and a rapid growth in coalition members are the key milestones that have been achieved.

Chair of the DPC, Lynne Brindley, remarks in her introduction to the report, that the first year has been a success.

Key highlights of the year

- Further promotion of the Preservation Management of Digital Materials: A Handbook which has so far been well received
- An online edition of the Handbook - updated and with new URLs added regularly
- 1.3 million hits and 58,000 visits to the DPC website
- Recruitment of new Coalition members - up from an initial 7 to 25
- Decision to establish a Digital Preservation Award as part of Pilgrim Trust Conservation awards
- Recruitment of a full-time member of staff

- Contribution to drafting of EU Council resolution and the UNESCO resolution on preserving the digital
- A seminar for publishers on digital archiving
- DPC Discussion email lists
- DPC Events, training and Forum Programmes
- DPC Survey of Industry Vendors
- Commencement of first stage of UK Digital Preservation Needs Survey

The DPC is keen to build on its strengths and develop its advocacy work, spreading awareness of the sector.

The Digital Preservation Coalition (DPC) was formed in 2001 and was formally established as a Company in 2002.
