DPC Career Development Fund Guidelines

The DPC recognizes the very great need among our members for access to specialist training and professional development opportunities. The DPC Career Development Fund (previously known as the Leadership Programme) was created to offer an ongoing program of grants so that our members can attend courses, events, or other training and development opportunities that will help them build digital preservation capacity at their organization. It is generously sponsored by the DPC Supporters. Over the course of its lifetime, it has provided over 200 grants for members.

DPC Members can access Career Development Fund grants in two ways:

1. Advertised Calls. The DPC publishes periodic calls for applications to attend events, courses and other development opportunities that have been selected and approved for inclusion in the program by the Workforce Development Sub-Committee.

2. Member Self-Identified Opportunities. Members can submit an application for any development opportunity they have identified and believe will help build digital preservation capacity within their organization.

In addition, the DPC seeks to reduce the risks that training providers face when developing and providing courses and development opportunities relevant to digital preservation. The DPC invites training providers to discuss the possibility and appropriateness of offering Career Development Fund grants for such opportunities.

Career Development Fund grants are only available to DPC Members, including prospective members whose request to join is approved by the relevant grant application deadline. A full list of DPC Members is on the website at http://www.dpconline.org/members/list-of-members.

Further details about eligibility, criteria, and conditions for the grants are provided in the sections below. Applicants are encouraged to contact the DPC Training and Grants Manager (Amy Currie, amy.currie@dpconline.org) should any questions arise.

Guidelines for Advertised Calls

The DPC publishes periodic calls for applications to attend events, courses and other development opportunities that have been selected for inclusion in the program and approved by the Workforce Development Sub-Committee. These grants for Advertised Calls are published via the DPC News page and listed on the DPC Grant Calendar page.

Funding Available

Funding levels will be stated in the published advertised call on the DPC News page. In the majority of cases, the grant will provide funding to help with expenses incurred in attending the opportunity. This may be used towards any one or all of the following expenses:

- Course fees or event registration costs [online or in-person]
- Hotel booking for multi-day courses or development opportunities [in-person, based on preferred Hotels list provided by organizers]
- Contribution towards travel expenses [in-person]

The amount of funding is at the discretion of the review panel and will be explicitly stated in the grant offer letter to successful applicants.

Eligibility for Advertised Calls
Grant applications are invited from officers, staff and affiliates of the organizations listed as members of the DPC on the Coalition’s website, and prospective members whose request to join is approved by the relevant grant application deadline.

Please note that only one application can be made per DPC Member per advertised grant opportunity. In other words, only one representative of a DPC Member organization can apply for each advertised grant. The main DPC Member contact will have final approval for who may submit an application on behalf of their organization, and applicants should take steps to ensure they are not inadvertently competing with colleagues.

Individuals associated with consortia or funded through agencies that are members of the DPC are eligible. However, they must confirm their application with the main DPC contact within the agency before applying. The DPC may pass the details of applications to the main DPC contact within these organizations as part of their assessment.

Applicants must be employed or funded by a DPC member organization/agency/consortia during the time of the grant opportunity (e.g. a fixed-term contract covering the time period in which the course or event will take place).

Honorary Personal Members of the DPC are eligible to apply for these grants.

Allied Organizations are not eligible to apply for these grants.

Member Self-Identified Opportunities

The DPC has extended the Career Development Fund to allow members to apply for grants to attend training and development opportunities they have self-identified to address specific training needs.

These grants are available to DPC Members to help meet their own particular development needs. Those interested in applying for one of the grants should refer to the following guidelines for eligible courses or development opportunities:

- Grants for the course or opportunity should not currently be offered by the Career Development Fund. Please contact the Training and Grants Manager if you are unsure.
- Opportunities need not focus on digital preservation topics. Topics that are adjacent to digital preservation or cover the more generic skills identified in the DPC Competency Framework are acceptable. Applicants need only demonstrate how the opportunity will directly benefit their organization’s digital preservation activities.
- Applications are particularly encouraged for grants that will enable early years professionals or junior members of staff to participate in development opportunities such as presenting papers or posters at a conference.
- Grants are not available to support activities such as work shadowing or staff exchanges.

Funding Available

For these grant opportunities (Member Self-Identified Opportunities), the amount of funding offered to successful applicants is at the discretion of the judging panel. Please note that there is a £1500 maximum limit for funding; no grant will exceed £1500, and the amount of funding offered will be explicitly stated in a grant offer letter to successful applicants.

Eligibility for Member Self-Identified Opportunities

Grant applications are invited from officers, staff and affiliates of the organizations listed as Full or Associate DPC Members on the Coalition’s website, and prospective members whose request to join is approved by the specified deadline for the self-identified opportunity.
The main DPC Member contact will have final approval for who may submit an application on behalf of their organization, and applicants should take steps to ensure they are not inadvertently competing with colleagues.

Individuals associated with consortia or funded through agencies that are Full or Associate members of the DPC are eligible, but they must confirm their application with the main DPC contact within the agency before applying. The DPC may pass the details of applications to the main DPC contact within these organizations as part of their assessment.

Before applying, please note that:

- Associate DPC Members can only receive one Member Self-Identified Opportunity grant per calendar year.
- Full DPC Members can receive up to two Member Self-Identified Opportunity grants per calendar year. The two grants cannot be for the same identified opportunity or for the same applicant. In other words, each application should be for a different individual to receive a grant for a different identified development opportunity.

Applicants must be employed or funded by a DPC member organization/agency/consortia during the time of the grant opportunity (e.g. a fixed-term contract covering the time period in which the course or event will take place).

Honorary Personal Members and Allied Organizations are not eligible to apply for these grants.

Review Process and Selection Criteria

DPC Career Development Fund review panels are typically formed of the DPC’s Training & Grants Manager, Head of Workforce Development, and at least one member of the Workforce Development Sub-Committee (with no conflicts of interest in relation to the applicants). Additional members may be added to the panel if required.

The review process for grants is as follows:

- The Training & Grants Manager collates applications, inputs basic information into a standard marksheet, and circulates the applications and copies of the marksheet to the review panel.
- Reviewers read and evaluate applications.
- Reviewers complete their section of the marksheet for each application using the guidance and rubric provided in this document.
- Reviewers return the completed marksheet via email to the Training & Grants Manager, who combines the individual marks onto one sheet.
- Reviewers meet to discuss marks and select successful applicants.
- The Training & Grants Manager notifies all applicants of the result of their application.

The review process, on average, usually takes around two weeks to complete.

Applicants are expected to complete all sections of the form by the stated deadline and are encouraged to contact the Training and Grants Manager should any questions arise while completing the sections of the form.

Review and assessment of the applications considers how the development opportunity will further the applicant’s professional development as well as digital preservation work at their organization through the short answer sections of the application. Consideration is also given to other information, such as previous grants received from the DPC and the applicant’s length of contract. Grants for those who would otherwise be unable to attend due to limited funding opportunities offered by their employers are prioritized. Preference will also be given to early years professionals or junior members of staff in a digital preservation role, but applications are also welcomed from those further on in their career or from students approved by their DPC member institution. An overview of the review process and assessment criteria is available here.
Conditions of Grant
It is our aim that the grants will primarily deliver benefits to an identifiable DPC member organization but that there should also be benefits to the broader DPC community. Therefore, recipients will be asked to produce outputs that will help disseminate the information or skills they have learned for the wider benefit of the DPC Membership. This may include, but is not limited to, a blog post on the DPC website and/or Twitter coverage of an event, or a webinar. Outputs for individual recipients will be discussed with the Training and Grants Manager subsequent to the award and will be proportionate to the size of the grant awarded.

We recommend that any member organization which supports an application discusses appropriate outcomes and benefits for the institution prior to submission.

How to Apply
Applicants should complete and return the relevant application form (list provided below) to the Training and Grants Manager before the deadline. Applications must also be accompanied by a supporting email or letter from a line manager, supervisor, or other senior executive containing explicit approval for the applicant to undertake the opportunity.

- Example application form for Advertised Calls (generic)
- Application form for Member Self-Identified Opportunity

The application form will be used by the review panel to assess eligibility against the criteria listed above and the impact attendance will have on the applicant’s professional development and the digital preservation work of their organization. The panel’s decision is final. Successful applicants will normally be notified within two weeks of the application deadline.

Please note that applicants must be employed or funded by a DPC member organization/agency/consortia during the time of the grant opportunity (e.g. a fixed-term contract covering the time period in which the course or event will take place).

Deadlines for advertised grants will be included with the relevant call for applications. Applications for self-identified courses or development opportunities are received on a rolling basis but must be received at least 10 weeks before the registration deadline of the proposed activity.

Short notice applications will be considered depending on DPC staff capacity, and only if they are received 4 or more weeks before the registration deadline and the applicant can demonstrate that the lateness is for reasons out of their control.

All sections of the application form should be completed before submission, and applicants are encouraged to contact the Training and Grants Manager during the application process should any questions arise.

Acknowledgments
The Career Development Fund is sponsored by the DPC’s Supporters, who recognize the benefit and seek to support a connected and trained digital preservation workforce. We gratefully acknowledge their financial support of this program and ask applicants to acknowledge that support in any communications that result. At the time of writing, the Career Development Fund is supported by Arkivum, Artefactual Systems Inc., boxxe, Evolved Binary, Ex Libris, Iron Mountain, Libnova, Max Communications, Preservica, and Simon P Wilson.
